"It's all about looking, and focusing, and going deeper, trying to pull something very rare out, and then holding it next to another object that had been retrieved, seeing how well they could speak to each other, and then continuing that process.

I like the idea that, while you're here, for your time in this life, you would be looking for personal and spiritual growth, for truth and inspiration, and that you would be genuinely interested in touching people, and in connecting with them, with yourself, with all the parts of what you think, and feel, you are."

For people who love the works of Damien Rice, Glen Hansard, Josh Ritter, Gregory Alan Isakov or Leonard Cohen, and for many other people.
