I sing, and I play guitar, using several effects, one of them being a looper. That's why the mix happens before all is sent to the PA as a sum signal, preferably via XLR, but a line signal is possible. The last element in my signal chain is a DI box, so there is no need for you to provide one.

I bring:

- acoustic guitar with pick-up, sometimes also an electric guitar
- dynamic vocal microphone + mic holder
- pedal board (effects, looper, mixer, DI)

I need:

- 1x mic stand
- 1x power supply on stage
- 1x monitor (if available) in center position
- your ears for the soundcheck

Piano option: If there is a piano at your venue, that's great! If it is an e-piano, it can be connected to the pedal board via line jack. For vocals on piano songs, I would just move the mic stand, unless you have another stand + mic at the venue. Then let's prepare a second mic with the piano!

Setup + soundcheck usually takes 20 to 30 minutes. If possible, I'd like to be done one hour before showtime. In case you have any questions, or wish to talk things through before we meet, don't hesitate to write or call!

Thank you!
